

Lauren Martinez

Lauren Martinez is a financial aid professional who began as a Financial Aid Advisor with New Mexico Highlands University in September 2025 and is now currently the Scholarship Coordinator with NMHU. She has a strong commitment to students and helping them understand their state and federal financial aid opportunities. With experience in scholarship management, outreach, and individualized advising, she works to ensure students understand their financial options and feel supported throughout their academic journey. Lauren is passionate about creating equitable access to higher education and fostering positive, student focused experiences.